NEW ON DVD

“Jumping the Broom,” Grade B-plus: Two families battle over wedding traditions. Angela Bassett stars.

If you only look at the cast, it might appear that is a comedy aimed at an African-American audience. But this sweet and funny story about how it's possible for two people to fall in love without falling into bed has universal themes. It shows how love conquers all.

Elizabeth Hunter's script is a smooth blend of tough emotional moments with light-hearted comedy. The emotional elements may make “Jumping the Broom” sound like a downer, but it's presented in such a loving way it's one of the better romantic comedies to come along in years.

“Mars Needs Moms,” Grade C-plus: Visitors from the red planet are kidnapping mothers to take care of Martian children in this animated adventure.

Milo (performed by Seth Green and voiced by Seth Robert Dusky) is a 10-year-old who boldly announces he'd be better off without his mother. That night, a spaceship arrives to transport Mom (Joan Cusack) to Mars. She's part of an alien abduction program that snatches moms and drains them of their mom-ness. That maternal essence is installed in robot nannies who tend to Martin children.

“Mars Needs Moms,” from the motion-captured animation to the 3-D effects, is out of this world. Too bad the story fails to get off the ground.

“Paul,” Grade C-plus: Two Earthlings (Simon Pegg and Nick Frost) help an alien who has escaped from a government facility.

The Help: (PG-13) Maids in 1960's Mississippi get to tell their side of the story; based on the best-selling book.

Horrible Bosses: (R) Three put-upon workers conspire to kill each other's bosses.

Judy Moody and the Not Bummer Summer: (PG) Tween comedy based on the book series.

Kung Fu Panda: The Kaboom of Doom: (PG) Po is living his dream as The Dragon Warrior, protecting the Valley of Peace.

Larry Crowne: (PG-13) A laid-off worker (Tom Hanks) heads to community college to start anew.

Midnight in Paris: (PG-13) Owen Wilson plays a frustrated author who stumbles into another time and place in the City of Lights. Co-starring Rachel McAdams and Marion Cotillard.

Monte Carlo: (PG) Selena Gomez stars in this tween fairy tale of two young ladies who run off to Paris for a summer adventure.

Rio: (G) A pet macaw (voiced by Jesse Eisenberg) heads to South America for an adventure in bird paradise.

Rise of the Planet of the Apes: (PG-13) This prequel stars James Franco as a scientist who unleashes potential in apes.

Transformers: Dark of the Moon: (PG-13) The Autobots enlist human allies to help find an enemy spacecraft on the moon.

Turtle: The Incredible Journey: (PG) Documentary about loggerhead turtles.

Water for Elephants: (PG-13) A veterinary student (Robert Pattinson) leaves his studies to join the circus.

X-Men: First Class: (PG-13) Origin story of the mutant superheroes and future villains, including Magneto and Mystique.

— From Staff and Wire Reports

“Paul” starts with the absurd and has no place to go except down. So the film keeps falling back on such immature jokes as having a deeply Christian woman (Kristen Wiig) find a new passion for profanity. The joke works the first five or six times, but by the 58th variation, any potential humor has been beaten into the ground.

The film is most funny when it references classic sci-fi — from the tune being played by a band at a biker bar to Paul's choice of candy treats. There's even a voice cameo by a famous director that's hilarious.

“Yo Gabba Gabba: Music Makes Me Move!”: Four episodes about how it's OK to be different.

“Top Gear: The Complete Season 16”: British series about the love of cars.

“Webster: Season 3”: Emmanuel Lewis stars in the TV family comedy.

“The Last Godfather”: Harvey Keitel headlines this organized-crime comedy.

“Secret Diary of a Call Girl: The Final Season”: Billie Piper plays the celebrity prostitute.

“Your Highness”: Danny McBride and James Franco portray two princes on a mission to save their land.

“Hey Arnold!: Season One”: Includes all 20 episodes of the first season of the animated Nickelodeon series.

“Tactical Force”: Steve Austin stars in this story of an elite police unit with its own rules.

“The Wiggles: Ukulele Baby”: Features 21 new songs set to the sound of ukuleles.
